Values Statement

The following values represent the standards to which we hold ourselves as an organization:

Respect – We respect each other, our stakeholders, our participants, our staff. We recognize their differences and uniqueness, we treat all with equality and professionalism.

Diversity – We value the diversity of all people and strive to make decisions based on equity and fairness and are committed to eliminating discrimination.

Collaboration – We recognize that partnerships and teamwork are the core foundation of our business. Our collaboration with policymakers, service providers, community providers and families enables us to develop programs and services that improve the quality of life for all our program participants.

Accountability – We hold ourselves personally responsible for our commitment to our program participants, partners and co-workers. We say what we mean, mean what we say, and continually strive to improve our services and outcomes.

Innovation – We engage in visionary and strategic thinking and creative problem solving , challenge the status quo, invite new ways of doing things and look to multiple and diverse sources for ideas and inspiration.

These values serve several purposes as we apply them to our daily work.

They guide our work.

They stretch our organizational thinking.

They are living values that challenge the way we do business.

We understand that we must strive toward these values every day, and that we must uphold these values as we carry ourselves and carry out the work of our organization.

Each staff member of Kokopelli Group Home, LLC. Must relate these values to their specific work so that they can become a meaningful part of their daily instructions.
